ORDER

The Court having found that on January 19, 2000, the Honorable Richard Gebelein sentenced the defendant in Criminal ID No. 83005854DI for a violation of probation to a period of six years at Level 5 and on May 3, 2000 the Board of Parole violated the defendant's parole in the same case, and sentenced the defendant to serve the remaining period of two years, 4 months and 21 days of the original sentence imposed on October 26, 19~~94~~⁸⁴ by Judge Taylor and the Court finding that as a result, the following modification to the violation of probation sentence is warranted and the following is hereby ordered:

- (A) The violation of probation sentence ordered on January 19, 2000 by Judge Gebelein is modified from six years at Level 5 to three years, seven months and nine days.

(B) The Board of Parole sentence imposed on May 3, 2000 for two years, four months, 21 days remains in effect and must continue to be served.

The effect of this order will require the defendant to serve six years at Level 5 regarding Criminal ID No. 83005854DI.

IT IS SO ORDERED this 29th day of December, 2006.

RE: State v. Harry J. Smith
ID No. 9611016048 and 83005854DI

Dear Mr. Smith:

The Court is in receipt of your Motion to Correct Sentence filed with the Prothonotary on September 26, 2006. As best the Court can understand, your complaint centers around case number 83005854DI in which on January 19, 2000, Judge Gebelein sentenced you to six years of incarceration. It then appears that on May 3, 2000 the Parole Board violated your parole status and sentenced you to serve the remaining balance of the sentence given to you by Judge Taylor on October 26, 1984, which was two years, 4 months and 21 days.

While it is difficult to understand exactly how this happened since the case is so old, it does appear that Judge Gebelein violated your probation on the same criminal action on which the Board of Parole violated your parole status. While this is legally possible and perhaps even permissible, it would be a very unusual circumstance and I believe unfair. As a result, the Court is going to modify the sentence Judge Gebelein gave you in ID No. 83005854DI to 3 years, 7 months and 9 days. In essence, the Court has done this to avoid what appears to be a double punishment between the violation of probation and the violation of parole. It is important for you to understand that this order in no way eliminates the Board of Parole sentence, and you will have to serve that sentence of 2 years, 4 months and 21 days as ordered. In essence, what the Court has done is reduce the violation of probation sentence and when that reduction is combined with the Board of Parole sentence, your total sentence becomes six years.

Sincerely yours,

Judge William C. Carpenter, Jr.
